SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on Southeast corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.

DEATH.

BY GIDSEY WILDE.

Withering, blighting, cruel Death;
Borne on the wings of a pitiless heath,
Like the sweep of a Typhoon gust;
Ruthlessly old and young alike,
He bears along in one vast dyke,
Into the vault of Dust.

Fearful and dark are the myriad aisles,
Lurid and ghastly the narrow defiles,
Through which he crowds the souls;
His agents are legions, who wander o'er earth,
Forgeing bolts of destruction and death,
Horrid, hadean ghouls;

But 'tis only here, the vision of sin,
With its cruel suffering and horrid din,
Can rack the mortal with woe;
'Tis only on earth, his minions are free
To throw the lance of agony,
That hurls us above or below.

Our idols are laid 'neath the turf every day,
And still the great grief knows no decay,
Nor do we feel less forsaken;
We look into Death's dark, blank night,
With faces pitiful, cold and white,
And wonder why, they are taken?

Like a smooth glassy lake, whose depth is ne'er seen
Though the gleam of its waves is as bright as the sheen
Of star-worlds, that spangle the night; [sheen]
So the River of Death to us is unknown;
To us, its mysteries never are shown,
Nor the barques of human freight.

They are borne through suffering on to the shore,
By an unseen pilot ferried o'er
Into the silent land;
We kon not on this earth-side,
What those mariners bettide,
When they reach the hidden strand.

Do sombre hosts raise the Iron Gate,
Usher them to an uncertain fate,
Down through Plutonia's realm?
Do they fall 'mid dark and dreamless space,
Till they reach the depth of the fiend race,
By horrors overwhelmed?

Do bands of seraphs with spirits bright,
Bear them up through either light,
To the glories of the Eternal?
Do they find the diamond, the crown and the robe,
Do they walk with those in that blest abode,
Who blaze in splendor supernal?

Who knoweth the mystery—an Isis veiled,
A book ever open yet ever sealed,
Where all the world's bartered
Are sold to Death for weal or woe,
For joys above or doom below—
For one of those Hythes all are chartered.

DISADVANTAGES OF INFANCY.

BY JOHN QUILL.

A friend of mine who lives in Oldcastle, Del., writes to me in an indignant manner about a thing that he considers "fudge and nonsense." He is a practical man of about forty-eight years; he has also two daughters and an inflammatory rheumatism in his left leg.

In religion he is a democrat, and he always votes the Reformed Dutch ticket. Although he is in the hardware business, he says he thinks he would make a good Indian fighter, for he wouldn't scalp well. His head is as bald as a slate roof, and a gentle savage might clutch and grab all over it for a hold, and he couldn't get the very first particle of purchase, because it's so slippery.

But that is neither here nor there, although it is rather more there than here. He writes in regard to a piece of popular folly. Forgive his freedom of style, for he is eccentric, and wherever it seems as if he was just going to swear, but the language bears the appearance of having been altered by me, the gentle reader must reflect that at these points the rheumatism probably gave him a twist and caused him to get up and howl.

"John," says he, "if there's any one thing I'm more disgusted with than another, it is this idea that is going around, that it is a good thing to be young again. Every girl in this town who has got a piano, is banging away at it, morning and night, until you would think they would burst the lids off the old music boxes, and at the same time bellowing out songs about the advantages of babyhood. 'I would I were a boy again,' sing they, just as if they ever could be boys again, when they were anything else but girls. 'Rock me to sleep, mother,' 'Give me back my childhood days,' etc. These were backed away at until you would actually think it was a good thing to be an infant.

"But it ain't, I'll leave it to any sensible grown person, if they would like to go back to the time when they were mewing, squalling, hiccoughing babies? How would you like to be dressed in frocks about a mile too long for you, and have a lot of old rags and one thing and another wrapped around you so you could hardly breathe?

"But ain't that the way they treat babies? Don't you know that they pin your clothes on, and if a pin happens to jab into your flesh at any place, that is the very identical spot some person or other is a going to grab you by and hold on like grim death while you yell?

"And ain't you cognizant of the fact, also, that while you are lying asleep in the cradle, with the flies blistering you and lifting the blood out of the top of your bald head, and you, very probably, writhing with a first class stomach ache, just as like as not your mother is standing over you, and suggesting that the angels are whispering to you, because you happen to forget your agony for a minute and smile?

"That's so, Gus. And you must be aware of how they stick at you a bottle filled with curds and whey, and with a gum thing on a nozzle, and how you can suck for a week and then the curds won't come through, and you start your music because you don't like that whey of taking your diet.

"And then when they once get your insides crammed full, what do they do? Why, in all human probability, some old hag, who is a friend of the family, drops in and gets grip on you, and when you cry because you have the good taste not to admire her style of beauty, she commits ravages on the English language, and jolts you up and down until you have about a pound and a half of garlicky butter inside of you, and you get dyspepsia because you haven't got gastric juice enough to digest a lot of grease.

"That is what babies have to endure. It is one of the penalties of having been born. Infancy? Why, I tell you I would rather any time be born an old man and live backward, taking the chances of dying in the middle life.

"I know, also, the abominable way they have of dragging up your petticoats and setting you on the floor to see if you can walk, while every minute you find yourself growing bandy-legged, and probably getting deformed for life, with a dead certainty of never getting a pair of pantaloons to set right on you afterward.

"It's malice, my boy, malice aforethought, and there is no more use of denying that they do it on purpose, than there is to say that your father don't hate you when he tosses you up and down in the air, and with murder rankling in his heart, tries to commit infanticide by jolting some of your organs out of place or dislocating a joint.

"Any man, my boy, who desires to go back and endure this unutterable agony ain't in his right mind, and he ought to be looked after to see that he don't go around and set fire to the premises.

"As for nurses, I suppose you know what they are designed for, don't you? I suppose you are aware that they kiss you and slobber over you when your mother is around, and spank you like the very nation to relieve their pent-up feelings when her back is turned.—And they call them dry nurses, too. Dry? I should think they were, for every intelligent infant knows that they take you in and lay you on the pantry shelf, while they go through the rum and old ale, and breathe on you until you are nearly suffocated and feel like falling into a fit.

"And then don't they strap you in a gig, and then take you out and cook you for hours in the boiling sun, yes, literally cook, I say, and this, without any regard to the fact that they are absent minded, and just as like as not, when they get you home, let you hang for an hour or more by one leg until your head begins to swell with apoplexy.

"Want to be a baby again, do you, and would like your mother to rock you to sleep? I should think so. And she used to do it, didn't she? In your second Summer, for instance, when you were cutting your teeth, and had cholera infantum on you so strong that I thought you would die. Did she rock you to sleep then? Not much. I reckon the old man used to get out of bed in his night shirt and growl savagely as he picked you up like any piece of old carrion, and kept the wrong hold on you while he walked you up and down, and then when you wouldn't keep quiet, instead of rocking you to sleep he went and got down a bottle of some soothing poison and endeavored to kill you off with a teaspoonful.

"You may say what you please, but it ain't in human nature to like that sort of thing. No man wants to go back to any such first principle as that. An inscrutable Providence has ordained that you cannot be born at the age of twenty-one. You have to be a baby, whether you want to or not, and its all very well to put up with it and to endure it with Christian resignation, but to want to be a baby again is all driveling nonsense, and the people who are anxious about it ought to be fed on pap or compelled to suck a bottle for their daily bread, until they get cured of their folly."

☞The Wicked may escape human laws, but can never fly from natural consequences. He who abandons himself to intemperance, will shorten his existence. If addicted to vice, he will perish under fatal habits. Look into the hearts of those wretches whose countenances would disguise their anguished consciences. See the covetous miser, haggard and emaciated, groaning under wealth acquired by the sacrifice of himself. View the gay voluptuary, secretly suffering under a broken constitution. See the liar, deprived of all confidence; the icy heart of ingratitude, which no acts of kindness can dissolve; the iron soul of the inexorable, whom the sight of misfortune could never soften; the vindictive, nourishing in his bosom the gnawing vipers that consume him. Observe the sleep of the murderer, the iniquitous judge, or the oppressor, whose couches are surrounded by the torches of the furies Avoiding their errors, and finding our consciences the constant abodes of quietness and peace, we shall be happy in the enjoyment of a lasting satisfaction and self-congratulation.

☞It is an ill thing for a man not to know the guage of his own stomach, nor to consider that men do many things in their drink that they are ashamed of when sober: drunkenness being nothing but a voluntary madness, it emboldons men to undertake all sorts of mischief; it both irritates wickedness, and discovers it; it does not only make men vicious, but shows them to be so; and the end of it is either shame or repentance.

☞If you happen to fall into company where the talk runs into party, obscenity, scandal, folly, or vice of any kind, you had better pass for morose or unsocial among people whose good opinion is not worth having, than shock your own conscience by joining in conversation which you must disapprove of.

Division of Color.

Fred Douglas has given his views of the situation, which are intended as a warning to his Republican associates. Fred don't mean that one complexion shall absorb everything. What he intends to accomplish is thus explained:

Somebody yesterday asked Fred Douglas (black man) why he didn't go down South along with the rest of the Republican orators, to help enlighten the minds of the freedmen, as to their political duties, etc.

"Because, said Fred., "I want to train alone. I want to wait until those mean whites get through with their talk, and then I will begin. I notice that in all the speeches that Wilson, Kelley, and the rest of them have been making the colored folks at Richmond, Mobile, New Orleans and other places, nothing is ever said about giving the colored men Vice President of their own color. But they have got to make that concession to us, and that is just what I am going down South to tell our folks to insist upon."

"But, Fred., do you think the Radical managers will accede to that arrangement?"

"I have no doubt of it, sar; none at all. Wendell Phillips and Horace Greeley say they are in favor of it, and what they say has got to be done. They are the men who run the Republican party along with old Ben. Butler, and whoever would run with that party must do as they say."

"But, do you think, if they nominate Grant for President, that Grant will consent to have a darkey on the same ticket as Vice?"

"Don't think anything about it, sar, Grant only counts one. It is not for Grant, or any other man to dictate to the people. We are the people. Grant is one of our servants, sar. If he does not like his company, let him resign. Plenty of others, sar, ready to take his place; plenty of others sar."

"But, even if they nominate a darkey for Vice President, what good will that do you or your race?"

"Don't talk foolish, child. It will do us a heap of good. In de first place, it will make a colored man presiding officer of the Senate, and then, as the President may die, he may be President of the United States. That's my plan of reconstruction, sar, the Union will never be restored, and the country will never have peace."

There were other queries about to be submitted to the distinguished man and brother, but just at this moment Reverend Doctor Cheever came along, and after introducing Fred. to a blushing damsel (who was hanging lovingly on his arm,) the whole party vanished in the direction of the office of the Anti-Slavery Standard.

"DON'T STAY LONG."—It is rarely, indeed, that we have read anything more truthfully pathetic than the subjoined waif, which we find floating among our exchanges. Would that every husband in our land might read and profit by it:

"Don't stay long, husband!" said a young bride tenderly in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out. The words themselves were insignificant, but the look of melting fondness with which they were accompanied, spoke volumes. It told the whole vast depth of woman's love—of her grief when the light of his smile, the source of all her joy, beamed not brightly upon her.

"Don't stay long, husband!" and I fancied I saw the loving, gentle wife, sitting alone, anxiously counting the moments of her husband's absence, every few moments running to the door to see if he was not in sight, and finding that he was not, I thought I could hear her exclaiming, in disappointed tones, "not yet."

"Don't stay long, husband!" and I again thought I could see the young wife rocking nervously in her great arm chair and weeping as though her heart would break, as her thoughtless "lord and master" prolonged his stay to a wearisome length of time.

Oh, you that have wives to say—"Don't stay long," when you go forth, think of them kindly when you are mingling in the busy hive of life, and try just a little to make their homes and hearts happy, for they are gone too seldom replaced. You can not find amid the pleasures of the world, the peace and joy that a quiet home, blessed with such a woman's presence will afford.

"Don't stay long, husband!" and the young wife's look seemed to say—for here in your own sweet home is a loving heart whose music is hushed when you are absent—here is a soft breast to lay your head upon, and her pure lips, unsoiled by sin, that will pay you kisses for coming back so soon.

☞A sketch writer in California delivered a Sunday School address, which is better than anything Mark Twain can do, and of which the following is an example:

"You boys ought to be very kind to your little sisters. I once knew a bad boy who struck his sister a blow over the eye. Although she didn't fade and die in the early summer time, when June roses were mowing, with words of sweet forgiveness on her pallid lips, she rose up and hit him over the head with a rolling pin, so that he couldn't go to Sunday Schools for more than a month, on account of not being able to put his best hat on!"

☞A verdant young man entered a fancy store in a city out west recently, while the lady proprietor was arranging a lot of perfumery. She enquired of him if he would not like to have some musk bags to put in his drawers. After a close examination of the article, he told the young lady that he did not wear "drawers."

Wit, Humor and Wisdom.

Objects to serenading: A young gentleman in Darby was anxious to serenade his charmer. He blows the cornet and the bass drum in a most artistic and highly inflated manner.—As a drummist he is without a peer. A bass-drum is not exactly the thing to serenade a lady with. Neither is a cornet. He desired company on his serenading expedition, and engaged the services of a colored guitarist.—They were going it, these two, at a high old rate, mixing the music of the guitar and cornet in a sort of musical punch, healthful and inspiring. But the gal, the dulcenia, the divinity in a waterfall and a gored dress, didn't like it. She raised the window; she drew from its hidden recesses a utensil; her beautiful lips unclosed; she spoke in strains as musical as the first low whispered notes of love: "Now, see here, if you darkies don't go away from there, I'll make things unpleasant for you." And she would have done it.—They left before the fall.

A boy's first composition: The Terre Haute, Indiana, Album gives the following essay on "The Ox," from one of its young contributors, just as it came from his pen: "Oxen is a very slow animal; they are good to break ground up. I would drather have horses if they didn't have kolick, which they say is wind collected in a bunch, which makes it dangerer for to keep horses than an ox. If there was no horses the people would have to wheel there wood on a wheelbarrer. It would take them two or three days to wheel a cord a mile. Cows is useful too. I have heard some say that if they had to be tother or an ox they would be a cow. But I think when it cum to have their tits pulled of a cold morning they would wish they wasn't, for oxen dont generally have calves. If I had to be any I would rather be a heffer, but if I couldnt be a heffer, and had to be both, I would be a ox.

A short sermon: A certain Madam Cresswell, infamously celebrated in the plays of Charles the Second's time, died in Bridewell, and bequeathed ten pounds to have a sermon preached in which nothing but what was well of her should be said. The sermon is said to have been written by the Duke of Buckingham, and was as follows: "All I shall say of her is this: 'She was born well, she married well, she lived well, and she died well—for she was born at Shad-well, married to Cresswell, she lived at Clarkee-well, and died at Bridewell.'"

A distinguished clergyman in a Connecticut town recently attended a circus on the same afternoon on which he engaged to officiate at a funeral, and, watch in hand, enjoyed the evolutions in the ring till compelled reluctantly to leave and fulfill his funeral engagement. He had, says an eye witness the sympathy of the entire audience.

One of the laziest men in this country resides in Iowa. As a sample of his inertia, we would mention that the only reason he don't get married is because he is too lazy to stand up.—Whenever he feels like gaping he has to employ a small boy to pull open his mouth. Wonder if he ever eats, and how does he make money to pay the boy.

Wrong—because a negro is not a white man.

☞The President has pardoned W. Johnston of Hollidayburg, some time since convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for dealing in and passing counterfeits; the petition for pardon was signed by many prominent Pennsylvanians and citizens of Blair county without distinction of party.

☞The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. purchased the Pan Handle railroad, on Wednesday last, for one million, nine hundred and sixty thousand dollars. This route was formerly known as the Pittsburgh and Steubenville Railroad and is a branch of the Pittsburgh, Columbus and Cincinnati Railroad.

☞The negroes of the Southern States vote with the Radicals because they believe the Republican party in the North is in favor of raising them to a political equality with the whites. If the Republican party North should throw the negro suffrage plank overboard, would the negroes South still continue to support the party?

☞Forney's Press of Thursday last came out in favor of Grant for President. Some days ago Forney said the Republican party would take no step backward, but would continue to advocate and support men sound on the negro suffrage question. Forney's support of Grant has already alarmed the Conservative Republicans.

☞A cable despatch says the Papal Revolution in Italy is ended. This has been a short struggle between the notorious Garibaldi and the papal forces. Garibaldi's troops met with repeated successes until they reached within sight of Rome, at a place called Monte Rotondo. Here a battle ensued on the 3d of November, in which Garibaldi was captured, and his forces completely routed.

MAKING AND UNMAKING.—Previous to the October elections, the Republicans everywhere used Stanton and Sheridan, outspoken Radicals, to advance their cause. Then these distinguished gentlemen were spoken of as on the high road to the Presidency, but now where are they?—they have been thrown aside by their radical admirers and availability urged as a substitute. Such is politics.

GEN. GRANT AND THE REPUBLICANS.—There is danger of a split in the Republican party. The Grant and anti-Grant Republicans are getting warm—fierce. The Journal & American, the Republican organ of this county, having raised the name of Grant as its choice for President, cannot be expected to give its readers more than one side of the question—we propose to give the other, that Republicans generally may know what is going on in their party. Grant is still on the fence, with the honest Radicals of the Republican party opposed to him. The office-seeking Republicans are generally for him, in hopes that should he be their candidate they would stand a chance of riding into office on the strength of his military popularity. The Radicals will stand out against Grant until he comes down from his neutral position, and should he declare in favor of Radicalism, then the Conservative Republicans would drop him—and defeat him if nominated.

☞There was a great meeting of the "strong minded Republicans" at West Chester on Wednesday evening last at which Wendell Phillips made a speech on the "Political Situation." On the Presidential question he said:

"I believe General Grant is acceptable to the conservative element of the Republican party; it aches for him. It is possible, if we do our duty, either that a better man shall be at the head of the Government, or that this puppet (as he will be in statesmanship) shall be so bound down by pledges and so committed to radicalism that he shall go in merely as a servant of the radical element of the Republican party."

The following resolution was adopted by the meeting:

Resolved, That we do not believe in Radicalism that is dumb; and, therefore, we warn the Republican party against the fatuity of nominating General Grant for the Presidency, in the hope of saving the party's life by the sacrifice of its principles.

The Radicals will not favor Grant's nomination or election unless they have him pledged to their Radicalism, publicly or privately.

☞The October and November elections have passed, and with them has passed away a great part of the power of the Radical party. This result is nothing more than we have repeatedly predicted; for the masses of the people could not sustain the policy of any party as radical as that which the leaders of the Republican party thrust upon their followers, and on the country. That party was kept in power to restore the country to its pristine flourishing condition, and was not expected to take advantage of its superiority, to advance its most ultra measures and schemes, which it knew to be distasteful to the people. They did not reckon the consequences of their scheming, and now they experience the sorrow of defeat. They have, by their power in Congress, kept a standing army in the Southern States, which is increasing the taxes every year; they have established a Freedmen's Bureau, which has and is taking millions of dollars of the people's treasury every year, just for the purpose of feeding and clothing ignorant and indolent negroes; they have, for the purpose of strengthening their party and keeping it in power, given the vote to all the negroes in the Southern States over twenty-one years of age; and, added to this, they have kept the country in a continual state of turmoil, by a warfare on the President, and by the agitation of political dogmas which should have been laid aside until our country was restored and united on a permanent basis. Pursuing such a policy they could not and can not be supported by thinking and reflecting men. For this they were defeated, and should they not profit by the experience of the present but continue their radical course, future defeats are in store for them, while perhaps unforeseen disasters are in store for our country. Their course in Congress this winter will be closely scrutinized, for there is the spot from which have sprung the edicts that have dictated the course they were pursuing. They still have power to work much mischief or restore harmonious relations, not only between the two branches of our Government, but also between the two sections of our great country. An entirely different policy will have to be pursued before they can hope to succeed in the future; for we take it that the recent voice of the people is the outspoken evidence of weariness and disgust with the Radical "rule or ruin" policy.

WHO SHALL RULE?—There are many sincere men who are solicitous for the welfare of our country; and knowing that its peace or discord is dependent on the course of its rulers, are asking themselves the question, who will rule over us. Looking at the results of the recent elections, they dread the ascendancy of the Democratic party to power, fearing that its leaders will be as radical one way as the Republican leaders are the other. Of this fear we also are possessed; for we cannot but think that the conspicuous exponents of the ideas of that party during the war would be unfit rulers for our country when the war is closed. Whether the Democratic party will look upon the results of the elections as an evidence of the success of their party, and proceed to claim such Radical Democrats as Vallandigham, Voorhees, Wood or Pendleton, as their candidate for the next President, remains to be seen. The first truth, however, that that party should bear in mind, is, that the vote of the Democratic party, as a party, would never have given them success. There were Conservatives in each party, and there were disgusted Republicans, who refused to vote, or voted with them as a choice of evils. Then again, their record during the war was of such a character that we fear whether any candidate they could bring on the field, would be successful—although a War Democrat might stand the best chance. We rely more on the candidate of a National Union party, composed of conservative Republicans and Democrats, than we would on any other; but in the event of no such party being organized, then it would be for the Democratic party to coalesce with conservatives and give us a conservative Democrat. Under such a ruler, we could feel safe, and would expect a speedy reconstruction of our country. A radical Republican or Radical Democrat as President, would fill the hearts of our people with dread, from the fact that either would pursue the policy dictated by their own imagination, or that of the followers of their own ilk. A man for the times is a Conservative Union man.

☞During the past week more than a dozen good Union Republicans complained to us of the conduct of the leaders of their party. They regretted that the principles of the Union party of the war had been set aside and the party itself disorganized by the radicals and destroyed. They could see nothing but defeat in the future, unless it was possible to reorganize immediately upon the platform of the old Union party—a platform upon which the "boys in blue" fought down the rebellion—a platform of principles we have never deserted. The progressive platform of the Republican organization will soon give the old Democratic organization all the States the Union party gained during the war.

The November Election.

More Anti-Radical Victories!

State elections took place on the 5th inst., in New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, Michigan, Illinois, Nevada, Missouri, New Jersey, Kansas, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. The results are about the same as they were in the October elections—heavy Anti Radical gains. Last year the Republicans carried the State of New York by 12,789 majority. This year the Anti-Radical majority will exceed 40,000. The city of New York gave 61,000 majority against the Radicals. Massachusetts has gone Republican by about 20,000—a loss since last year of 40,000. Maryland gives in the neighborhood of 40,000 against the Radicals. New Jersey gives two or three thousand Anti-Radical majority—last year it gave 1500 Republican majority. Illinois, Michigan, Nevada, Missouri, Kansas, Wisconsin and Minnesota, have gone Republican by greatly reduced majorities. In Kansas two amendments to the Constitution were voted upon. One to give negroes the right to vote, and the other to give women the right to vote. Both were defeated by large majorities:

Will Congressmen open their ears and listen to the voice of the people?

☞The New York World, Democratic organ, speaking of the anti-Radical victory in that State, says:

"It will not do to assume that we have won by a simple exertion of our own party strength. The fact is true, whether we recognize it or not, that we are indebted for this magnificent and manifold triumph to citizens who have not, for the last few years, acted with the Democratic party. In this city and in the neighboring towns of New Jersey, to our knowledge, Republicans have voted the Democratic tickets; and we suppose we must have had more or less assistance of this kind in all parts of the country.

But a larger proportion of Republicans have staid away from the polls and lent us indirect aid almost as valuable. Our success in the future will depend upon the continuance of this co-operation."

What the World says of the anti-Radical Republicans and Conservatives, may be said of the same class of voters in every State in the Union. They voted straight Democratic tickets as a choice of evils. But where the same vote will be counted next year is another question. The Union Republicans and Union Democrats may have a Presidential candidate of their own. They may also have Congressional and Legislative candidates, and they may also be strong enough in many counties to put candidates in the field for county offices. The anti-Radical vote, outside of the Democratic organization, is strong in every State—but there must be organization to succeed with Union anti-radical candidates. The increased vote for the "Democratic party" this fall is not a permanent strength—it was a help for a special purpose only—to check radicalism.

☞"Our neighbors of the Globe seem to be anxious to have our position defined in regard to universal suffrage. We can only say that if they wish to question us, we will point to our record, where they will find us."—Journal & American.

We quote from the record of our neighbors of the Journal & American:

"The great Republican organization, based and built as it is, on the eternal principles of justice and equal political right to all men, without regard to race or color, has moved steadfastly forward."—Journal & American.

No one will dispute the fact that the Journal & American works faithfully with the Republican organization, and in doing so it advocates "equal political right to all men, without regard to race or color." Your record, neighbors, is satisfactory—a little more so than any answers you might now feel disposed to give after hearing the news from New York, Massachusetts and other States in which elections were held last week. The heavy Republican losses in all the States are crushing arguments against negro political equality, and perhaps they may convince you that your organization made a great mistake in attempting to force the negro race up to an equality with the white Republicans.

FIFTY THOUSAND EMIGRANTS COMING.—Commissioner Wilson, of the General Land Office, is in receipt of a letter from A. W. Atwood, Esq., of London, England, making inquiry relative to obtaining a quantity of land for the settlement of 50,000 emigrants, which it is contemplated sending to the United States. The commissioner has replied, referring to the great body of unoccupied land West of the Mississippi, and the facility for obtaining title to the same, under the provisions of the pre-emption and homestead laws.

☞Two men recently died suddenly at a Canadian tavern after drinking a cup of coffee. The landlady called the police, who suspected her of poisoning the men. She protested she had not, and to prove the harmlessness of the coffee, drank a cup herself, when she also fell down dead. An examination of the coffee-pot showed that a bunch of matches had been boiling with the coffee.

☞President Johnson is to be serenaded at the White House to-night, by the Democrats and Conservatives. It is expected that he will reply at length. We will give his speech in our next.

☞Registration in South Carolina amounts as follows; whites 45,741; negroes 79,585; black majority, 33,844. So much more for negro supremacy.

PLAIN TALK.—The Phila. Morning Post, a new daily paper, endorsed by several large meetings of leading Radicals, speaks plain in opposition to the nomination of Gen. Grant as the Republican nominee for the Presidency. We give below a few extracts from the Post:

"When the people ask a direct question, they wish it answered by the man to whom it is addressed. Such a question they have asked Gen. Grant, and to us it seems somewhat presumptuous for Mr. Washburne or Colonel Forney to volunteer a reply. That Col. Forney should give his opinion that Grant is a Radical is right enough, just as Mr. Blair may give his opinion that Grant is a Democrat. We can take their opinions for what they are worth. But when Colonel Forney puts his opinion in the place of Grant's answer; we reject it as counterfeit coin. It won't pass. * * * * *

"The Republican party is pledged to Impartial Suffrage, to the absolute destruction of all tests of color or race in the laws of the United States That pledge will be kept by the majority of the party; letter and spirit it will be kept. We will not break it for Grant; we will not break it to obtain success; we will accept defeat before we will consent to give up one jot of principle in our platform or to wink at the slightest infidelity in our candidate.

This, therefore, we would say to all Republicans,—stop before it is too late to stop. Refuse to endorse Grant till Grant has endorsed Radicalism. Meet his silence with silence more profound. Do not let America see the shameful spectacle of the Republican party, moving in crouching procession to offer, to beg, to bribe, any man to become its leader and its candidate. Let us go our way, and if General Grant believes as we believe let him come to us.

* * * * * * *

"Our position is that if Grant is the most popular man in the country, as his friends claim—if he is a Radical, that then he was bound to give Radicalism the help of his popularity. We assert that his refusal to say one word for us was direct aid to our enemies; and the greater his Republican admirers prove his influence to be, the greater they make the injury we have suffered from his silence."

VIRGINIA.

The Recent Election—Startling Facts.

[Correspondence of the Philadelphia Daily News.]

NORFOLK, Nov. 1, 1867.

The evil results which thoughtful men feared would follow the attempt of the Republican leaders to drill the freedmen into their ranks are surely upon us. Those leaders schooled the colored people into the belief that the white people of the South were their enemies; that the people of the North were their friends, and would sustain them in the attempt to put down and trample on their former masters. The poor darkies were but too apt scholars. They arrayed themselves against the whites, and the result is the two races are now divided by strict lines which will never more be effaced. The friendly feeling heretofore existing between the whites and blacks is gone forever. It is bad for the whites, but far worse for the blacks.

As an impartial looker on, I must say the conduct of the negroes in the recent campaign has greatly lowered my estimate not only of their moral sense, but of their great sagacity. Several respectable gentlemen of undoubted integrity and capacity—original Republicans and consistent Union men throughout the rebellion, offered themselves for the convention, and in every case were rejected by the negroes, and illiterate men of their own color, or more degraded whites, preferred. There is not a solitary man of education among the seventy-odd Radicals chosen; but among them are eighteen negroes, one man who can neither read nor write, one penitentiary convict, one white man with a black wife and sundry other moral or intellectual curiosities. It will undoubtedly be the meanest body of men (setting aside the few Conservative members) that ever assembled in the United States; and doubtless the only constitutional convention ever elected, of which two thirds of the members had never read a constitution, and did not know the meaning of half the words used in the instrument they were chosen to prepare.

The fact that scarcely a thousand white votes in the whole State were cast for the Radical candidates, ought to open the eyes of the northern people to the true condition of affairs here. In Richmond, where there are several hundred citizens of northern birth—many of them ex-army officers—but thirty-two white votes were cast for the Radicals, and probably not one-fourth of those were northerners. A practical acquaintance with the condition of affairs here drives every respectable northern man (THERE ARE NO EXCEPTIONS) into the Conservative ranks. A few northern men were chosen to the convention, but they are of the meanest type. For instance, in the Hampton district, a so called Colonel White was elected. This individual resigned the position of Major in a N. Y. regiment to accept the position of sutler, for which performance General Butler ordered him out of the department.

It seems that about one per cent. of the white population voted the Radical ticket, and about the same proportion of colored people voted for Conservative candidates. It only requires a few month's residence to cure the strongest Republican here of his radical notions, unless he is a man who prefers the company of negroes to white people, as is the case with the colored white above mentioned, and a few rare birds of the same feather. Ought not these facts to open the eyes of the reconstructionists in Congress to the folly of their course? They are doing incalculable mischief to everybody in the South, white as well as black, but mainly to the latter class; for no one now can doubt the result of hostility between the two races. With public opinion at the North, in favor of the blacks, they might stand for a while in opposition to the whites, but with the case reversed they will have no show at all. Gloomy is the future of the poor negro. His worst enemies are his professed friends.

Speech of Senator Doolittle.

Senator Doolittle on the Political Crisis.

Senator Doolittle, of Wisconsin, delivered a speech in the City Hall, Milwaukee, on the evening of the 28th ult. The following is a report of his remarks:—

Mr. President and Fellow Citizens:—For some months past I have been absent from my native land. I have been removed from the exciting scenes of political strife. I have hardly read the political newspapers of my own country, but during these months I have had leisure to reflect much upon the situation of our beloved country. From all the reflection and thought which I could bring to bear upon it, I have been confirmed in the belief, which was forced upon me more than two years ago, namely, that the policy which was then proposed by Mr. Lincoln immediately upon the surrender of the armies of the Rebellion, to recognize at once the States of the South, to have them restored to all their constitutional rights, and to their representation in the Union, was the only just, the only wise, the only constitutional policy (Applause.) From that time forward I have struggled to carry that policy into effect. I believed then, and I am now more than ever firm in the opinion, that if, two years ago, immediately upon the surrender of the armies of the Rebellion, the States of the South had been recognized with their constitutional rights, and admitted to their representation in the Union, under the policy of Mr. Lincoln, all the difficulties which now surround us, both financial and political, would have passed away. (Applause.) I believe that if, two years ago, that policy had been fairly adopted, the bonds of the Government of the United States this day, at six per cent., would command a premium in gold in every money centre of the world. (Applause) I will state this fact—which I hope no one present will forget—I have met no intelligent man in Europe who has not expressed the same opinion, that if our States of the South had been admitted to representation in the Union, that the whole world could see that we were one people, one nation, with all the States represented and taking part in our legislation, our six per cent. bonds would not only be at par, but would command a premium in gold. Why not? Why should not the American securities at six per cent. command a high premium in gold, when the English three per cents. command ninety-three per cent. in gold? No earthly reason can be given, except that these States are apparently divided and dissevered; that the States of the South are kept out of the Union by this radical policy. I charge this home to the leaders of that policy. The whole responsibility rests upon that radical policy, which, trampling the Constitution under its feet, violating their plighted faith and the policy of Mr. Lincoln, the often avowed policy which elected him, refused to allow to ten States of the Union all right to representation. (Applause.) Fellow-citizens, it is not my purpose to detain you for any length of time. I only wish to express in a few sentences two or three thoughts. The great, all absorbing idea, which underlies radicalism is precisely the same idea which underlaid secession. (Applause.) What is that idea? Let us not deceive ourselves. Ideas rule the world. What was the idea which led the South into Rebellion? It was this. The Constitution has no authority over the Southern States against their will; they have a right to withdraw from the authority of the Constitution at pleasure, and therefore, after the passage of their ordinances of secession, the Constitution was practically dead in the States of South. The people of the South went to war to enforce that idea. What did we do? We maintained precisely the opposite idea, to wit:—That the Constitution has supreme authority over the States of the South as well as of the North, and that the States of the South should be made to acknowledge the supremacy of the Constitution. To maintain that idea we called two millions of men to the field. We poured out our treasure and our blood like water. To maintain that idea we created this debt of three thousand millions of dollars. To maintain that idea five hundred thousand of our sons went down to battle and to death. By the blessing of God we were victorious in maintaining that idea of the supremacy of the Constitution over the States of the South when we, at length, after a long and terrible war of four years, compelled the South to surrender to that idea; when we compelled the people of those States who made their appeal to the God of battles to decide the question between us, to surrender the controversy; when the South yielded and acknowledged the Constitution to be supreme, and that the flag of the United States was the flag to which they owed allegiance; then up rises Thaddeus Stevens, Charles Sumner, Benjamin Wade, and other radicals of the North, to proclaim anew the idea of the secessionists, viz., the Constitution is no longer the supreme law of the land in the States of the South; that we do not hold the States of the South by constitutional authority; that we hold them by the sword and the sword alone; not under the Constitution, but outside the Constitution, by a power which is above the Constitution. That is the idea of radicalism. It is not only akin to, but it is identical with the idea of secession. It is the essence of rebellion against the Constitution of the United States. Whether it is asserted by Jefferson Davis at the South or by Thaddeus Stevens at the North, it is a new rebellion against the Government of the United States. (Applause.) We have by force of arms put down the Rebellion of the Secessionists at the South. We do not expect to be compelled to put down this new rebellion at the North by force of arms. (Applause.) We expect to put it down by moral power alone, by argument, by reason, by persuasion, as we have done in Connecticut, in California, in Pennsylvania, and Ohio, by the power of the ballot-box. (Great applause.) Mr. President, I will not detain you any longer. I trust the Americans will rise in the majesty of their strength, and by their moral power, by calm reason, by earnest and truthful argument, and by their votes proclaim again the supremacy of the Constitution of the United States in the States of the South, not only in spite of the Secessionists in the South, but in spite of the radical anarchists and revolutionists in the North. (Great applause.) I can very well see by the election returns that a change has come over the spirit of the country. When I come to Racine now, the place where I have lived for fifteen years, I am not met by an infuriated mob who would prevent me from speaking to the people of my own town. [Great applause.] A mighty change is being wrought. (Cheers and great applause.) If I attend a meeting in the neighboring county of Kenosha, to proclaim these doctrines there, in which I believe the very existence of constitutional liberty to us and to our children is involved, there will be no one to interrupt and insult me, to prevent their utterance, or to interfere with me in any manner. (Applause.) Why this change? Simply the work of time. Men are beginning to reflect, to reason, to think for themselves. The excitement and passions and prejudices which war has engendered are passing away, and cool, dispassionate judgment is once more asserting its legitimate sway.

I thank God for what I already see, and I think we shall have occasion to be yet more thankful for what is yet to come. (Great and prolonged applause.)

Blood Thirsty Speech of a Negro.

RICHMOND, November 9—An excited meeting was held at the headquarters of the blacks last night. A committee was appointed to wait on General Schofield and request him to order the city election. Lewis Lindsay, a colored delegate elect to the Convention, made a speech, in which he alluded to the discharge of negroes for voting the Radical ticket. He said before any of his children should suffer for food, the streets of Richmond should run knee deep in blood. He thanked God the negroes had learned to use swords and guns. All efforts of the more peaceful negroes to stop these demonstrations were wildly hooted down. The citizens here are apprehensive of trouble. Mr. Wardwell and other white Radicals left the meeting.

☞An explosion of boilers took place in Pittsburg by which twenty lives were lost and many persons seriously injured.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

STRAYED AWAY.—Two yearling CALVES, one a steer and the other a heifer, both red and white, strayed from the premises of the undersigned in Henderson township, about the latter part of April. Any information as to their whereabouts will be rewarded. D. GROVE.

Brief Items.

—Two bears were shot near Newton Hamilton last week. One was a cub.

—Farmers will find some items for their consideration on the fourth page.

—The Grand Jury, it is hoped, have made or will make an inspection of our county jail.

—Washington Isett, of Blair county, was found guilty of committing a rape on Mrs. Lovina Wilt.

—A brass band has been organized in Williamsburg, Blair county, with Prof. E. W. Thomas of this place, as teacher.

—Circus day was the dullest day in town for a month. Some of our merchants couldn't see where expenses were to come from.

—The Good Templars of Tyrone held a fair the other week, and netted $145.78. Miss Mollie Study was voted the prettiest lady, and Rev. Clark the most popular preacher.

—Two men were badly burned by the explosion of Babbit metal, in Lewistown, last week. The metal was being poured into an iron box, which was too damp.

—Thieves are again prevalent in Lewistown. To stay the progress of the infection the citizens are preparing to give the first appearances a shot injection.

—Those who "wish I were a baby" should read Disadvantages of Infancy by John Quill, on the first page. We guarantee a cure for all such "baby dreams," and we know of not a few who are thus afflicted.

—True: a small debt is easier to pay than a large one, and one year's subscription to The Globe is easier to pay in advance than at the end of the year. Our books are open for advance subscribers.

—Brick pavements are still the order of the day in the ancient borough. Another year of 'brick on the brain' will give us the best paved town in the State. Go in on the brick—we're out of the pressure.

—The editor of the Johnstown Democrat says he saw a young lady buy and pay for "her own hair, her own cheeks, hips and buzzims." Oh, you naughty fellow, you should have hid your face and kept mum.

—The Blair county commissioners have adopted a plan for the erection of a new county jail with all the modern improvements. The work will commence next spring. Let Huntingdon follow suit.

—The District Quarterly Convention of Good Templars assembles at Tyrone to-day, the 12th. The delegates from Standing Stone Lodge are Dr A. B. Brumbaugh, Robt. U. Jacob, Miss Lettie Thomas, and Miss Mary Gwin

—A coroner's jury after investigating the death of a child in Buffalo, brought in a verdict of "death from the injudicious administration of Winslow's Soothing Syrup, which caused convulsions and congestion of the brain."

—There is some talk of something going on in Huntingdon next summer. There is certainly wealth enough in this neighborhood to make work for the mechanic and laborer. We hope the men of means will try to do something to 'swell' our town.

—Gardner, Hemmings & Co's circus was here on Thursday last. It did not exhibit in the afternoon, in consequence of a lack of patronage; in the evening the crowd was pretty large, but as the air was chilly the circusites hurried up the programme.

—We understand that about five thousand persons have recommended the pardon of William Johnston, of Altoona, who was convicted of counterfeiting at the last term of the United States District Court and sentenced to the Western Penitentiary.

—The Hollidaysburg Standard says that town will have five duals—four in the tower of the Court House, (which can be seen and read of all men—east, west, north and south,) and one in the court room, to admonish long-winded attorneys to "dry up."

—A boy named McDonald was shot on Hallow-e'en, by a man named Thompson. He with other boys had been enjoying himself in the customary manner, in front of Thompson's house, when he took a rifle and shot amongst them, the ball lodging in the stomach of young McDonald. He died the next morning.

—A train of thirty cars was loaded with railroad iron at the Cambria Iron Works in Johnstown last week, the destination of which is a point on the Pacific railroad west of Omaha, Nebraska. The distance to be traversed is over fifteen hundred miles, considerably more than half the distance from the Atlantic to the Pacific. All this without transhipment.

—The following officers of Standing Stone Lodge, I. O. of G. T, were duly installed on Tuesday evening last:—W C, Rev. Thomas Barnhart; W V T, Miss Belle Glazier; W S. A. J Reilly; W A S, Miss Mollie Miller; W F S, Thomas Johnston; W T, Miss Nannie Patton; W M, Hugh Lindsay; W D M, Miss Hennie Wallace; W C, G Barton Armitage; W R H S, Rev. James C Clarke; W L H S, Miss Ada Douglas; W I G, Miss Hattie McCoy; W O G, James F. Bathurst; P W C T, Thomas W. Myton.

Catholic Mission at Huntingdon.

A Mission will commence in the Catholic Church of this town, at 7 o'clock, Monday morning, 18th inst. The Mission will continue from the 18th, to the evening of the 24th inst, when it will close at 7 o'clock. During that time, there will be Divine Service at 10 o'clock, every morning, and at 7 o'clock, every evening. At 10 o'clock, Tuesday morning, 19th inst, and at the same time, on Sunday 24th inst., there will be a Solemn High Mass, with Deacon and Sub Deacon. At 3 o'clock P. M., on Sunday 24th inst., Confirmation will take place. The exercises of the Mission will be conducted by the Rt. Rev. Dr. Domenec, Bishop of Pittsburgh, who will be accompanied by several clergymen.

Native Wines.

Some time since we stopped at Passaic, and were really surprised to see the old store house there all filled with wine on storage.

The amount of Mr. Speer's stock of Port Grape Wine on hand is almost fabulous. Four storehouses are filled, and tiers upon tiers of casks up and down stairs, and in some cases huge vats, occupy every available spot, leaving only little alley ways through which to walk. It is an illimitless quantity of wine. None is sold until it has acquired the age of four years, and the buildings 1, 2, 3 and 4, are of the first, second, third and fourth years vintage. Our druggists have some of the oldest of the above wine direct from Mr. Speer.—Patersonian.

☞In 1863, David Stoner left Huntingdon county, and settled in Stark county, Ohio. Prior to his leaving this State, he was drafted, but obtained release by proof that he was over the age at which men are exempted from military service. In this he then supposed he was correct, though not having access to the family records, he was unable to fix his age accurately. Having recently come in possession of the facts of his exact age, and finding that he was under age at that time, Mr. Stoner has deposited three hundred dollars in the Stark county Bank, to be sent to the Treasury Department at Washington, that being the sum required in 1863 to purchase exemption from the draft.—Hollidaysburg Whig.

The Fashionable Ladies

Demand the Patent Collapsing Skirt, which has received the most flattering encomiums of the Ladies generally. It can be altered into any shape or size the wearer may desire, instantly. By its collapsing properties the skirt will adjust itself to any size of the hips, so as to perfectly fit all Ladies. Every skirt is warranted. Price for 25 springs $2.50; for 30 springs, $2.75. Try one. For sale only at A. L. Lewis' new cheap store, Leister's Building, Huntingdon. Receiving new and desirable styles of Goods daily. †

—The barn, stable, wagon shed and corn-crib attached to a hotel in Learnersville, Blair county, was destroyed by fire on Saturday a week. Three horses and two mules were consumed, together with a large quantity of hay, oats, wheat, rye, straw, &c. The losses of personal property, nearly all of which fall upon Mr. Perry G. Trout's shoulders, are estimated as follows:—Contents of the barn, about $3,600; in the stable, about $590; and in the corn crib and wagon shed about $730. No insurance.

From a Hair to a Boat Load.

Fairbanks' Standard Scales will weigh accurately the most minute object that can turn a balance of the greatest delicacy, or give the correct tonnage of a heavily loaded boat or railway train. The highest premiums were awarded for these scales at the Great Paris Exposition.

Great Decline.

ENERGETIC MEN AND LADIES WANTED to Canvass for the

ORIGIN AND HISTORY OF THE

BOOKS OF THE BIBLE.

BY PROF. CALVIN E. STOWE, D. D.

Showing what the Bible is not; what it is, and how to use it; tracing the history of each book up to its origin with the inspired authors, and completely answering all Infidel cavils and objections to the Scriptures. It is an ordinary History in a single volume, brief, clear, accurate, conclusive and highly interesting. A master-piece of common sense. It is needed in every family where the Bible is read, as well as by every Sabbath School teacher, student and clergyman, and being the only book on the subject ever published or sold in this country, agents can easily see the advantage of canvassing for this work. Send for circulars containing notices and indorsements from leading ministers of all denominations. Address

AN IMPROVEMENT IN LIGHT!

We take pleasure in putting before the public a LAMP for burning fat, lard or tallow, which is superior to any of the kind ever introduced. It differs from all others, as it does not require the fat to be melted before lighting. It heats the fat by a copper pipe, which conducts the heat under the fat and melts it immediately.

Thousands of the lamps have been sold and no complaints have been made. All Lamps warranted to give general satisfaction, or the money refunded.

A rare opportunity is offered to any person or persons that may wish to engage in the business. Huntingdon and Mifflin counties will be sold in townships at reasonable terms to suit purchasers. A sample lamp will be forwarded to any person on receipt of retail price, $1,50, and forwarded at my expense.

Will either sell territory or pay agents by the day or piece. Agents are making from $5 to $15 per day, for they sell very fast. They are what every person needs. All letters will receive prompt attention.

Address or call on D. WALKER,
Airy Dale, Huntingdon county, Pa.

☞Lamp may be seen at the Franklin House in Huntingdon; Mr. Hughes' Store, Mill Creek, and at the hotel in Cassville. se18-tf

"OWN MAKE."

After more than five years experience and experimenting in the manufacture of STRICTLY FIRST QUALITY HOOP SKIRTS, we offer our justly celebrated goods to merchants and the public in full confidence of their superiority over all others in the American market, and they are so acknowledged by all who wear "Hopkins" them, as they give more satisfaction than any other Skirt and recommend themselves in every respect. Dealers in Hoop Skirts should make a note of this fact. Every lady who has not given them a trial, should do so without further delay.

Our assortment embraces every style, length and size for Ladies, Misses and Children. Also, Skirts made to order, altered and repaired.

Ask for "Hopkins' Own Make," and be not deceived.—See that the letter T. H. is woven on the Tapes between each Hoop, and that they are stamped "W. T. HOPKINS, MANUFACTURER, 628 ARCH STREET, PHILADA." upon each tape. No others are genuine.

Also, constantly on hands full line of good New York and Eastern made Skirts at very low prices, Wholesale and Retail, at the Philadelphia Hoop Skirt Manufactory and Emporium,

Agricultural Gleanings.

Matters of interest to Gardeners—Roots of all kinds should be housed before frost affects their flavor and keeping qualities. A bin of earth in the cellar is useful for packing roots to keep them fresh till late in the season. Turnips and beets are liable to shrivel unless covered with the soil.

Asparagus beds may be cleaned with profit now, and covered over with stable manure. This can be raked off in the spring, and some that is finer put on and mixed with the soil.

Preparations for planting dwarf trees, vines, &c., should be made in the garden this fall. Dig the holes and fill them with manure; in the spring throw out the manure and plant the trees, covering the roots with the frost ameliorated soil.

Make arrangements for the hot-bed in the way of preparing the soil for covering the manure. Leaf mold and sharp sand makes the best.

Hardy vegetables—as peas, lettuce, cabbage and potatoes—that are desired to start extremely early, may be sown in the fall and protected by sufficient mulching until spring.

Milk—A sickly cow not only yields a diminished profit, but yields a sickly milk, and sickly in a higher degree than her flesh.

If a cow eats anything that has a strong or disagreeable odor, it appears in her milk.

If a cow eats anything medicinal it comes out in her milk.

If she is feverish her milk shows it.

If she has sores about her, pus may be found in her milk.

If she is fed upon decayed or diseased food, her milk, since it is derived from her food, will be imperfect. It is as impossible to make good milk from bad food, as to make a good building from rotten timber.

Dahlia Roots should be taken from the ground carefully, and immediately transferred to their winter quarters, where their fibrous roots must be carefully spread upon a thin layer of sand or earth, and at once covered with about an inch of the sand, leaving the greater part of the tubes bare. They should be alike free from saturation and dryness, which will with equal certainty engender putrefaction.

Gathering Fodder—Cut and gather in good season your tops and blades.—The provender may be rough but experience proves that it contains much nutritious matter and it is a wise economy to husband the finer grasses for feeding, when horses are again called to heavy labor, and their strength requires to be amply supported by the best of feeding.

Cabbage may be kept very well by simply turning the roots uppermost and covering the heads with soil and then with coarse litter, and it has been kept in excellent condition until spring by simply pulling and inverting them, setting the heads on the fresh earth. The snow forms a good protection.

Fertilizer—In the cultivation of clover, wonderful advantages have been gained by the application of the sulphato of iron on soils where it is desired to produce an early crop. Mulberries, peaches, grape vines and wheat, derive advantages from the same treatment.

Bees—A pound or two of syrup or honey fed to a destitute colony will save and encourage it; and as honey must of necessity soon be abundant in flowers, no bad effect can follow feeding for a short time. Don't have any weak colonies, but if you do have, feed them rather than let them starve.

Good Feeding—Feed liberally. Feed at regular times. There is no profit in poor animals of any description. They eat more and fare worse than animals liberally fed, and they return less profit. See that the food is clean and palatable.

Grape Vines trained on the south wall of a building, with a full southern exposure, will ripen from two to three weeks earlier than the same kind of vine and the same exposure, with the vines upon an open trellis.

Celery—Our gardeners should devote themselves more to the culture of celery, as it is one of the sources of profit. For winter keeping it can be packed in sand, and placed in a cool cellar.

Wash for Fruit Trees—A gallon of soft soap, one pound of flour of sulphur, one quart of fine salt: stir the latter ingredients into the soap, and apply with a paint or whitewash brush.

Butter—Clean milking, clean pails, pans, crocks and churns, are the first requisites to the production of a good article of butter. Farmers and housekeepers should bear this in mind.

The Garden—Introduce system in your garden operations and plan a rotation of crops, so you will have the results all the year round.

Quantity of Seed per Acre—From four to six pecks should be seeded; the larger quantity in all cases to be preferred where the soil is in good heart.

Paint applied in winter will last twice as long as that applied during hot weather.

Bone Meal is highly recommended for cows by those who have tried it.

A National Thanksgiving.

THE PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION.

In conformity with a recent custom that may now be regarded as established on national consent and approval, I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do hereby recommend to my fellow-citizens, that next, be set apart and observed throughout the republic as a day of National Thanksgiving and praise to the Almighty Ruler of nations, with whom are dominion and power, and who maketh peace in his high places. Resting and refraining from secular labors on that day, let us reverently and devoutly give thanks to our heavenly Father for the mercies and blessings with which He has crowned the now closing year. Especially let us remember that He has covered our land with greatly needed and very abundant harvests; that He has caused industry to prosper, not only in our fields, but also in our workshops, in our mines, and in our forests. He has permitted us to multiply ships upon our lakes and rivers, and upon the high seas, and at the same time to extend our iron roads so far into the secluded places of the continent, and to guarantee speedy overland intercourse between the two oceans. He has inclined our hearts to turn away from domestic contentions and commotions, consequent upon a distracting and desolating civil war, and to walk more and more in the ancient ways of loyalty, conciliation, and brotherly love.—He has blessed the peaceful efforts with which we have established new and important commercial treaties with foreign nations, while we have at the same time strengthened our national defenses, and greatly enlarged our national borders.

While thus rendering the unanimous and heartfelt tribute of national praise and thanksgiving, which is so justly due to Almighty God, let us not fail to implore Him that the same divine protection and care which we have hitherto so undeservedly and yet so constantly enjoyed, may be continued to our country and our people throughout all their generations forever.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, the 26th day of October, in the year of our Lord, 1867, and of the independence of the United States the ninety-second.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

WM. H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 1, 1867.

From the creation of the world, in all ages and climes, it has been customary to set apart certain days for special religious observance. This has not always been influenced by the light of Christian knowledge, nor by any proper conception of the character of that Great Being "who ruleth the earth in righteousness," and "who daily loadeth us with his benefits:" but by an innate sense of the existence of an overruling Power, by which all the world and all it contains are governed and controlled. Aided by the dictates of cultivated reason and the teachings of Divine revelation, we, however, are taught to recognize in that Supreme Ruler a Heavenly Father, to whom we are indebted for existence and all the blessings we enjoy, and to whom we owe constant and fervent thanksgiving and praise. It is He who "visiteth the earth and watereth it;" who "setteth the furrows and blesseth the springings thereof;" who "crowneth the year with His goodness, and whose paths drop fatness;" who "closeth the pastures with flocks, and covereth the valleys with corn;" who "maketh the out goings of the morning and of the evening to rejoice;" who "is our refuge and strength;" who "maketh wars to cease," and "saveth us from our enemies;" and whose throne is forever and ever," and who "blesseth the nations whose God is the Lord."

On all sides we have increased assurances of the "loving kindness" of an All-wise Parent of Good, who has conducted our nation through a long and terrible war, and permitted our people to repose once more in safety, "without any to molest them or to make them afraid." The monstrous sentiment of disunion is no longer tolerated. The flag, the Union, and the Constitution are esteemed as the safeguards of the rights and liberties of the people, and are revered and defended as the ark of their political safety.

A kind Providence has not grown weary of supplying our continuous wants; a bounteous harvest has rewarded the labors of the husbandman; flocks and herds are scattered in countless number over our valleys and hills; commerce is uninterrupted, and vessels laden with the products of nature and of art speed unmolested over the trackless deeps. Neither pestilence, famine, political or social evils, financial embarrassments of commercial distress, have been permitted to stay the progress and happiness of the people of this great Commonwealth; but peace, health, education, morality, religion, social improvement and refinement, with their attendant blessings, have filled the cup of comfort and enjoyment to overflowing.

Recognizing our responsibility to Him who controls the destinies of nations as well as of individuals, and "from whom cometh down every good and perfect gift," to whom we are deeply indebted for all these and the richer blessings of our common Christianity, let us unitedly give our most devout gratitude and hearty thanksgiving:—I therefore, do hereby recommend that Thursday, the twenty-eighth day of November next, be set apart as a day of praise and thanksgiving; that all secular and worldly business be suspended, and the people assemble in their various places of worship to acknowledge their gratitude and offer up prayers for a continuance of Divine favor.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the State, at Harrisburgh, this thirty first day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and of the Commonwealth the ninety-second.

JOHN W. GEARY.

F. JORDAN, Secretary of State.

BEALE'S

Late Powell's Embrocation,

For all Diseases Incident to HORSES, CATTLE, and the HUMAN FLESH, Requiring the use of an External Application.

This new Compound, prepared by a practical Chemist having a full knowledge of all the medical virtues of each ingredient that enters into its composition, is warranted to exceed anything of the kind ever yet offered to the Public as an external application for the diseases for which is is recommended. We are satisfied that it will work its own road into the confidence of all who use it, and those who try it once will never be without it, and therefore we rely on experience as the best test of its usefulness. It is pronounced by Farriers, and all who have tried it to be the best application ever used. This Embrocation has been put up for over eight years, and it is only through the increasing demand and urgent request of my friends and the Public that I send it forth as the grand remedial agent for the various diseases to which that noble and useful animal, the horse, is subject.

Many remedies have been offered to the Public under different forms, some of these are injurious, others at best of little use, and many wholly improper to answer the purposes for which they are recommended.

A judicious and really useful composition, free from those objections, has therefore long been desired by many gentlemen who have valuable horses, and are unwilling to trust them to the care of designing and pretended Farriers. Their wishes are at length fully gratified, by Dr. Beale being prevailed upon to allow this valuable Embrocation (which has proved so effectious to the various diseases) to be prepared and brought out to the public.

This Embrocation was extensively used by the Government during the war.

DR. LEON'S

ELECTRIC HAIR RENEWER,

Is pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the Hair. It is a positive cure for Baldness, eradicates Dandruff and Humors, stops the hair from falling out, and speedily restores Gray Locks to their original hue and luxuriance.

It operates on the secretions and fills the glands with new life and coloring matter. Thin, dead, faded or gray hair will always be brought back by a few applications, to its youthful abundance, vitality and color.

It makes the hair soft, glossy, fragrant, pleasant to the touch and easy to arrange. Dry, wiry and intractable locks become moist, pliant and disposed to remain in any desired position. As a Hair Dressing it has no equal.—The sales are enormous and it is a universal favorite with old and young of both sexes.

Sold by Druggists throughout the United States. Address all orders to

Fruit Preserving Solution,

FOR THE PRESERVATION OF ALL KINDS OF

FRUITS, VEGETABLES, JELLIES, WINES, CIDER, &c

Without Sugar, and without Expensive Sealing or Air-tight Jars.

One Bottle will Preserve 128 Pounds of Fruit, or 48 Gallons of Wine or Cider.

CHEAP, HEALTHFUL AND EFFECTUAL.

This Solution, when properly used, effectually prevents fermentation or decay of Fruits, and, by the most simple and inexpensive process every variety may be kept in a fresh and perfectly wholesome condition the year round. It is no new and uncertain experiment, but has been in practical use for the past eight years, yet has been, for the most part, kept from the public for the purpose of ascertaining the result of a series of experiments, all of which have proved the validity of all that is now confidently claimed for it.

Fruits preserved by this Solution are as good as the best "canned" fruits, while the use of the Solution avoids the trouble of sealing, costly jars or cans, keeping from the air and light, frequent examinations, and the many other troubles and annoyances well known to every housewife.

Fresh native fruits the year round have become almost a household necessity, both on account of their healthfulness and as a luxury; and by the use of the solution this great luxury is within the reach of every family, rich or poor, in the land, as all kinds of fruit may be preserved, during pleasure
